British Provincial Tokens.

Mr President, Members of the R.N.M. and Visitors -

It has been allotted to me ( by our worthy Secretary ) to tell you something about British Provincial Tokens, or as they are more commonly called " Condor Tokens "

I began collecting these Tokens quite a few years ago, on a small scale, and as most beginners do, I bought most anything that came my way, until about eight or ten years ago, when I began to be a little more careful in my selections.

The copper currency of England towards the end of the eighteenth century, was in such a neglected condition by reason of the meagre supply, and the very inferior quality of the design, that tons of imitation regal halfpence and farthings were in circulation.

Such being the state of things, it is no wonder that when the Provincial Token Coinage made its appearance with the issue of the pennies and half pence of the Parys Mines Company of Anglesey and others, many persons made collections of the novel specimens.

So long as the Tokens were of good weight, and the supply was not in excess of the need for small change, the issue was advantageous to the public; but when the supply exceeded the demand, and the quality had materially deteriorated - not to mention the number of counterfeits which got into circulation - they ceased to serve their purpose, and were superseded by the issue of the copper two-penny and one penny pieces of 1797. Called the " Cart wheel Two-pence.

A visit to the Abbeys, Castles, Cathedrals or Churches, as represented on the specimens, mutually adds to the interest in the structure and the token; in fact the more attention is devoted to the subject and appertaining circumstances, the greater becomes the intellectual pleasure which a collection will furnish.

The first token exhibited, P5-No9 is one issued by a James Burleigh of Cambridge. The obverse gives us a representation of the celebrated Cambridge carrier, Thomas Hobson; and the reverse, the handsome stone conduit he erected in the market place.

Thomas Hobson was born about 1543 and died in 1630. He succeeded to the business of his father, as carrier between Cambridge and London.

He also kept a livery stable, and had about forty horses. It was an unalterable rule that each horse should have an equal share of rest and work, and that no horse should be let out before its turn: hence the proverbial saying "Hobson's Choice" this or none. This is a rare token

The second token is one of Mathew Young's, P96-No40 who was a jeweller and goldsmith, and had his shop on Indgate Street, London. Also a dealer in coins and medals, ancient and modern. His stock of coins were sold between 1838 and 1841, the sales occupying sixty one days.

The third token P28-No2 is that of the iron bridge in Sunderland opened in 1796. This is in Durham County, about twenty or twenty five miles from where I lived when a boy.

These were made for collectors, and were issued as a sort of medalet to celebrate the opening of the bridge. This is also a rare token.

The Franklin Press token P130-No307 is classified with these tokens, as it is said, that they were issued by the Proprietors of Watt's Printing Office, known as the Franklin Press, in London. Benjamin Franklin at one time worked there as a journeyman printer, and as a compositor.

There is also the penny token of the Cabbage Society, (P118-No227) there are also the half penny and farthing tokens of this series. The obverse has a cauliflower on it, and the word "Purim" 1796 on the reverse.

These were struck for a Jewish society, Purim being the name of a Jewish feast, or the "Feast of Lots" observed annually to commemorate the deliverance of the Jews, as told in the ninth chapter of Esther.

The tokens of James Condor, (P250-No35) a draper of Ipswich, were issued to advertise his business, and they also represent Cardinal Wolsey, and various local buildings of interest. The pennies were private tokens, but the half pence were used as currency

The Yorkshire Tokens are very interesting to me, as that is my native county. We have walked the street shown on the Bedale token, (P321-No9)

The same can be said of the city of York, where stands the cathedral towering above the other buildings, and which I have visited several times.

Thomas Spence issued tokens, the designs being intended to give publicity to the political sentiments which he advocated.

Antagonism to the payment of rents was exemplified by the Indian, and the legend " If Rents I Once Consent To Pay, My Liberty Is Passed Away ". (P166-No684)

The beginning of oppression is shown by a representation of " Cain Killing Able " (P166No684) .

A Freeborn Englishman, A man fettered and a padlock on his mouth. (P168-No70900)

Kempson's series of London Building Tokens were made for collectors. Some are shown, including the Tower of London, and Westminster Abbey. (P168-709)(P102-89).

The Coventry Tokens are very interesting, and collectors are indebted to a Thomas Sharp, the Coventry historian for providing the designs for the Coventry Building Tokens. Thomas Sharp, who carried on the trade of a hatter and resided at the house having the figure of " Peeping Tom " issued four dozen private tokens of much interest. There are eighty Varieties of Coventry tokens. The " Lady Godiva " and " Peeping Tom " being (I think) the most popular ones, as told in the following poem :-

The Romance Of An English Penny.

Back in the days of long age,           The Earl of Coventry Married a fair maid, as we know,       Of wondrous form was she;
Fashioned like Venus, perfectly       Modeled in every part;
So beautiful and fair to see,       Her charms won every heart.

One day the tenants round about       This same Earl's large estate,
Made secret plans, which soon leaked out, Their tax and rents to wait;
And not one groat would they agree    To pay, or rent to meet,
Till the fair Lady Coventry           Rode through the village street
Nude, as when born, astride her steed; This was the plan they made;
All threats they all refused to heed,   That their rents must be paid.

Then the Earl told of his sad plight,   Lady Godiva heard,
And informed him it was her right,     To coax his little world
Of vassals, back to fealty,           By riding without clothes.
" 'Tis better far than bankruptcy,"   Said she, "for choice of woes."

Her mind made up, no argument       Could win her from her way;
So to the village, the Earl sent       Command, that on the day
His lady rode, each tenant there       Must stay inside his cot,
With blinds tight closed, and not one dare   To peep, or see his lot.

So thus the lady did the deed,       Clad only with her hair,
She naked, rode her prancing steed     Down to the village square,
And back unto the castle went,       Winning a meed of fame;

For thus she gained her Lord his rent, And gave a coin its name.
This is the tale and history           Two noted things came from:
The penny piece of Coventry,       And name of " Peeping Tom ".

Mr. Harry C. Wardell,
Rochester Municipal Museum,
Rochester, New York.

Dear Mr. Wardell:

Upon my return to the city this morning I found your letter of February 14 awaiting me. No Indian was used as a model for my father's design for the ten-dollar gold piece. If you will look on page 331 in the second volume of "The Reminiscences of Augustus Saint-Gaudens", you will find an account of it.

As a matter of fact it is not meant to be an Indian at all. In my father's first idea it was a "Victory" head which was somewhat taken from the profile of the head of the "Victory" on the Sherman monument, and somewhat taken from the profile of a very handsome Irish maid we had at the time.

My father himself had no especial desire to put the Indian head-dress upon this profile, but President Roosevelt, who was largely instrumental in obtaining the coinage, insisted, and so the head-dress was added to the relief at his request.

Yes, we have sketches that my father made of his coins and medals, and if you would care to exhibit them any time before the Museum in Cornish becomes steadily visited - which is, say, about the fifteenth of June - I have no doubt that the Trustees would allow you to borrow them. In that event you should write to who is Assistant Director of the Memorial.

Mrs. Ida Metz Reed

Sincerely yours,

411th MEETING OF THE ROCHESTER NUMISMATIC ASSOCIATION

Tuesday, March 4, 8 P. M., at the Rochester Museum of Arts and Sciences.

Mr. Edson J. Woodgate will speak on "Origin of Coins".

Mr. Lindboe will be toastmaster of the luncheon, and will outline the plan for a "Numismatists' Forum" to be on the program for one of the future meetings.

If you have been absent from the last few meetings you have missed a treat. We did not know we had such lecturing talent within our ranks. All our speakers have carefully prepared their talks, which have been of general interest. Thirty-two were present at the last meeting to hear Mr. Horner, who claimed it was his first speech. He certainly gave the impression of being an old timer at speaking.

'SIDE TALK' OVERHEARD AT THE LAST MEETING.

Dr. Peake will soon get busy on the summer outings. He did a good job last summer and his re-election as Chairman of the Outing Committee is assured.

During Mr. Woodbury's absence in California, Mr. Gillette is playing a little "politics" to be elected Captain of the ball team.

Mr. Bauer confessed to the number of years he has been a numismatist, but we have forgotten the number of the dynasty in which he began collecting.

Toastmaster Lange gave some of the members an opportunity to make after dinner speeches. Who dreamed we had such spell binders in our midst! (He said this was done to take attention from the "eats", as the cupboard was bare and the coffee had been baptized twice.)

Who said we could not get speakers? The Program Committee reports all meetings booked with speakers until June 1.

Harry C. Wardell,
Secretary.

JOINT MEETING OF THE ROCHESTER AND BUFFALO CLUBS

The Rochester Numismatic Association and the Buffalo Numismatic Association met in joint session at the Hotel Richmond, Batavia, New York, Saturday, March 22, at six o'clock in the evening. Early indications were that there was to be a goodly attendance, and members were not disappointed when twenty-four men sat down to a very fine banquet in a private dining room at seven o'clock. The following represented the Rochester Numismatic Association: J. W. Sloane, W. H. Amberg, E. J. Woodgate, John W. Horner, A. H. Plumb, Harry C. Wardell, Augustus J. Kaufman, Geo. J. Bauer, C. W. Foster, Paul M. Lange, G. J. Lindboe, E. H. Potter, W. S. Sunday, and Geo. A. Gillette. Representing the Buffalo Numismatic Association: Edward A. Gilroy, Jr.; Roy C. Schamhl, Robert H. Lloyd, William C. Fleming, Nelson S. Hopkins, Paul Miller, Fred Becker, and George O'Hara, Jr. Visitors were Mr. Roscoe B. Martin of the First National Bank of Forestville, and Mr. H. F. Glasford, also of Forestville, N. Y.

Mr. George J. Bauer, as Toastmaster, mentioned the one vacant chair at the table, and called all members to rise to a silent toast to the late Mr. Montgomery of Buffalo, one of Buffalo's pioneer collectors and a member of the R. N. A. Mr. Bauer commented on the fitness of Batavia as a meeting place, mentioning it as the half way stop, and its Institutions. Noting Mr. Gilroy's mishap, Mr. Bauer related an accident that befell him in Baltimore on a previous coin expedition.

Mr. Gilroy outlined the Convention Plans, mentioning the trips and entertainment, and assuring everyone of a very good time while in Buffalo.

Mr. Kaufman, President of the R. N. A., described his start in coin collecting through the finding of two old newspapers and the prevalence of the large amount of foreign coin in circulation just after the Civil War period, which were undoubtedly the foundation of many of our collections today.

Secretary Lloyd spoke briefly on the various joint meetings held at Toledo and Erie during the recent past. He praised the idea and the success of the meetings, and expressed a hope that they might continue in the future, to fulfill the larger purposes of the Coin Clubs.

Secretary Wardell of the Rochester Numismatic Association commented on the work of the Secretary, and expressed his enjoyment of the work and contacts that it brought even though he himself was not a collector of coins. Mr. Wardell is particularly fortunate in being able to look at Numismatics from a Museum standpoint. In connection with his work at the Rochester Municipal Museum he is able to exhibit coins in such a way as to answer the questions of the public, which is a method overlooked at many museums. The paramount interest shown in the collections of the Rochester Numismatic Association at the Municipal Museum shows the success of this method of display.

Vice President Roy C. Schmahl invited all to attend the Convention at Buffalo next August, assuring an interesting time to all visitors.

In the absence of Mr. A. A. Kolb, Vice President of the R. N. A., Mr. J. W. Sloane, Treasurer, spoke. Mr. Sloane especially mentioned the fine type of men that he had met since he had become affiliated with the various coin clubs.

Because of their seriousness in their talks, Mr. Bauer deemed it wise to call on others than the officers, and herewith some real humor was injected into the party by Mr. W. C. Fleming, who after several stories related how he made his start in collecting some three years ago.

Mr. William S. Sunday mentioned the clubs and their convention preparations as one of the principal tasks of the coin bugs. He led a verse of the famous "Coin Bug" song and the members joined heartily in the chorus. The language of the "Coin Bug" Mr. Sunday said was a foreign tongue to the man on the street, and yet once it became intelligible to one, he was sure to become an ardent "Coin Bug". But Mr. Sunday turned theron to a defense of the "Coin Bugs". As men and students they were merely hobbyists who were riding their hobby and riding it hard. The hobby of coin collecting and coin study was not in reality a "bug", but really a highly dignified diversion which was the pastime of monarchs and an educational study now to be found and recognized in all cultural circles, an interest which is sure to develop the character and intellect of the collector.

Mr. Bauer commented on the cultural interests of coin collectors by announcing that at a recent lecture on Ancient Coins as a part of archeology held in Rochester all the members of the Coin Club were present, while no one represented the Archeological Society.

Mr. Gillette recited several stories, among them one on the way in which he became wounded on the field of Numismatics. An amusing elephant story in this connection pointed the way to the lighter part of the evening.

Mr. Bauer then called on President Gilroy to introduce his followers from the Buffalo Club. After this Mr. Bauer introduced the members and visitors from Rochester and other points. Each member rose and introduced himself again, and gave short comments on the occasion.

The exhibits which followed the dinner were interesting.

Mr. Gillette displayed a number of interesting elephant coins, several tokens and medals of Buffalo, among which were some Civil War store cards in uncirculated condition. The object of principal interest was a large Pan American medal by MacNeil in silver, struck by the Gorham Company.

Mr. Lange exhibited a large collection of elephant coins in all metals from Ceylon, India, Siam, Africa, and Asia Minor, ancient as well as modern, many in fine state.

Mr. Hopkins exhibited a superb collection of military decorations of many different wars. These were nicely shown in trays and described. A fine selection of medals also graced the display.

Mr. Lloyd displayed a selection of the discontinued styles of United States paper money; among the specimens were a brown bank note, ten dollar silver certificate, and several notes with low numbers.

Members wended their homeward ways feeling that the meeting had been a decided success, considering the fact that the plan was acted upon scarcely two weeks previously. Members enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. Fleming who provided the upstairs room for the preliminary program of good fellowship and good feeling, so that tip-top spirits prevailed when the dinner was announced.

The Hotel Richmond's accommodations were quite adequate and no effort was spared to make the meeting a success. The consensus of opinion was that "We must come again".

Tuesday, April, <sup>1</sup>/<sub>8</sub> P. M., at the Rochester Museum of Arts and Sciences. Mr. Kolb will speak on "Medals and Medallic Art".

Members are requested to bring along their medals for exhibit. Mr. Woodgate will be Toastmaster of the luncheon. Have you heard that he celebrated a birthday March 27?

NEWS ITEMS

We are planning on holding a Saturday afternoon outing with the Buffalo numismatists when "Sol" is working better.

Members have been doing fairly well in bringing exhibits to the meetings, still there is room for improvement. Do not fail to do your share as the exhibits have been of especial interest. Bring along your medals Tuesday night.

We have added three new speakers to our list for future meetings, Messrs. Gillett, Sunday, and Lindboe.

Fifty-six names appear on the revised list of members of the R. N. A. A number on the list are out of town members so our attendance records indicate a fairly good percentage attending the meetings.

Buffalo had nine at the Batavia dinner and Rochester fourteen.

Mr. Bauer held his car until six sharp for the "late one" who just slipped in under the wire. Talk about Paul Revere's ride, you should have been in that 6 o'clock special. Possibly we may have a poem on this ride by our well known poet.

419TH MEETING OF THE ROCHESTER NUMISMATIC ASSOCIATION

Rochester Museum of Arts and Sciences, Tuesday July 1, 1930

Mr. Charles W. Foster will be the speaker. Subject, "Non-Cents".

Auctioneer Sunday requests some coins be brought for our new members.

A very successful meeting of the Numismatic and Philatic Societies of Buffalo, Cleveland, Youngstown, Pittsburgh and Rochester was held at Jamestown, June 21. Seven attended from Rochester. Reports of the meeting will be given Tuesday night.

The minutes of our meetings which have been published in "The Numismatist" have brought in quite a few inquiries relative to the subjects discussed at the meetings. We have had two requests for copies of the talks given by the members.

Most all societies take a vacation during the hot weather. Numismatists seem to be weather proof. Thirty were present at the last meeting.

Messrs. Horner and Plumb are disputing the announcement made in the last notice regarding the champions of horse-shoe pitching. Judge Lange would not change his decision. Being true sports, Messrs. Peake Jr. and Leiss will give to them a return engagement at the next outing.

THE NEW PRESIDENT OF THE A. N. A.

The Buffalo convention of the A. N. A. elected George J. Bauer, of Rochester, N. Y., president for the coming year, and there is every reason to believe he will be a worthy successor to President Markus. The selection of a member as President from the ranks is unusual. Mr. Bauer has never held office in the Association, except a year or two as a member of the Board of Governors several years ago. But he has been one of the faithful ones for many years and has attended nearly every convention since the first Rochester meeting in 1912.

GEORGE J. BAUER.

Mr. Bauer has been a collector since boyhood and his membership dates from the early days of the A. N. A. While not a charter member, his membership number is 4, which is an indication of the many years he has been a member. In his younger days he was a dealer in coins in a small way, but in late years he has been, as he says, only a collector. And George is some collector—a real numismatist in every sense of the word, as his exhibits at conventions will attest. His specialty is Greek and Roman coins, though some say he has side lines as well. Be that as it may, his chief interest is in the ancients, and he knows his subject well. He has traveled extensively and has made two or three visits to the cities and sites of cities in which many of the ancient coins were struck.

Mr. Bauer has been engaged in the automobile business for twenty-five years and has three sons in business with him. He was born in Rochester on September 15, 1870, and is, consequently, 60 years of age. He began collecting coins when about 14 years old, starting with the large copper cents, some of which were still in circulation at that time, as well as some of the fractional currency. After several years of endeavor to form a collection of cents, half cents, quarters and half dollars, he became a dealer in a small way and bought and sold a few coins and issued several catalogs. In 1888 he had a collection of American coins large enough to exhibit at the International Fair, which was held annually at Buffalo, and the cash prize for the best exhibit went to him. There was a lull in his collecting activities during 1890-1891, during which time he was married. The collecting fever soon returned, and he formed a number of collecting friendships, among them being Fred E. Merritt, Dr. French, Will Ballard, Henry Brayer, John C. Lighthouse and Joseph Hooper. He also formed the acquaintance of Dr. B. P. Wright, a well-known collector of that time, then living at Syracuse, N. Y., in a peculiar manner. George was touring the Syracuse section on his bicycle, when the machine became unmanageable and went down Camillus hill. He was picked up considerably bruised and cut and taken to Dr. Wright's office, where he was patched up, and then they held a little coin session. George became famous in Western New York as a track bicycle rider, and a record of a mile in 1:58 3-5 still stands to his credit at the Maplewood half-mile track at Elmira. His bicycle enthusiasm only retarded but did not dim the collecting spirit. From Americana he formed a general collection and broadened his field, and early the ancient coins, with their history of the dim past, became the leaders of his collection. By contact with other collectors and attending seventeen A. N. A. conventions new lessons were constantly learned, he says. He has made three trips to countries bordering on the Mediterranean, with George A. Gillette as numismatic travel guide, and has inspected collections in most of the large cities of Europe and many of the dealers' stocks. He is a Life Member of the A. N. A.

both in the museum and in activities outside its walls. He did much to develop his department and, in the absence of the museum director, Arthur C. Parker, when abroad, took his place as chief executive.

Mr. Wardell was born in 1874, in Penn Yan, his parents being Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wardell. His father had come to that village from Hudson. He was especially successful as a discoverer. Fossil slabs of various kinds exhibited there were found by him. He excelled in finding geological specimens and in making casts for other institutions. Another field in which Mr. Wardell established confidence was seismology. After earthquakes, newspapers quoted his opinions at length.

Twenty-five years ago, Mr. Wardell was married to Miss Carrie A. Williams of Hudson. She and their son, Harry C. Wardell, Jr., of 107 Electric Avenue, are the only immediate members of Mr. Wardell's family living.

RESOLUTIONS ON THE DEATH OF HARRY C. WARDELL.

In the unexpected passing from his active and useful life of our esteemed Secretary and Brother, Harry C. Wardell, we all received such a sudden shock, that we could not sense nor realize that he, who had been the inspiration of more enjoyable and profitable meetings <sup>than</sup> under any previous leader, had so suddenly passed from our midst. His cheerful influence seemed still to permeate the atmosphere and we felt that he certainly was still with us in spirit, although his chair was temporarily vacant. Such were the feelings of your committee at the last meeting when we were appointed to prepare these resolutions.

Now, therefore, be it resolved that the Officers and Members of the Rochester Numismatic Association wish hereby to express and to make a permanent record of our esteem and affection for our departed Secretary, Harry C. Wardell, as a very warm-hearted friend and Brother. Our Society cannot fully convey in words our appreciation for all that he did in promoting fraternity and good cheer that made our meetings attractive socially. His untiring devotion to our physical needs drew out an increased attendance of our members. He also gave much thought and effort toward stimulating our interest in promoting a deeper knowledge of the science of numismatics than can be secured by merely collecting materials. This he did by encouraging our brothers to prepare papers and discussions on such branches of our science with which they were most familiar. He also prepared special trays for Exhibits to illustrate the discussions. To his untiring efforts in preparing such programs we are all indebted for much new information that made our meetings not only interesting, but very instructive. We also wish to give him credit for his zealous accomplishments in increasing and improving our numismatic exhibits in the Municipal Museum.

We know that he would modestly disclaim special credit for himself, while living, but <sup>it</sup> is fitting to let his family and friends know of his rich service and that we appreciate it.

We wish to give him credit for all these fine things, which he did for us and say well done our good and faithful Secretary.

We wish to convey to his widow and family our heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement and we hope and trust that they will be sustained and comforted with the assurance that such a loving husband and father deserves and will receive all that is promised to the faithful Christian and that they may look forward to a happy reunion with him beyond the veil.
